INVESTIGATE REPORT OF NEST OF GERMANS PLOTTERS IN BOSTON

ACTIVITIES OF HUNDRED MEN ARE BEING WATCHED BY U. S. OFFICERS.

GERMAN CONSUL IS INDICTED

Grand Jury at Frisco Returns True
Bill Against Franz
Bopp.

(Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 9.—Federal authorities are investigating reports that Boston has been used by German sympathizers as a base for the direction of hostile activities in Canada. A government employee is said to have typewritten copies made of dictograph records alleged to have been obtained at the meeting place of the men under suspicion. The movements of over 100 men have been under surveillance.

Washington, Feb. 9.—German Consul-General Franz Bopp was indicted in San Francisco by a federal grand jury in connection with the so called Crowley plot to blow up munitions plants and interfere with interstate commerce in munitions of war, according to a report received at the department of justice.

Antitrust Act Is Cited.

Bopp was reported indicted under the Sherman antitrust law and under the section of the penal code which forbids a conspiracy to set on foot military expeditions from the United States against a friendly nation.

Details of the indictment were not sent here, but officials understand that this section of the law was resorted to because of alleged plans for an expedition against Canada.

Other Indictments In.

Twenty indictments were returned also at San Francisco by the same grand jury in the steamship Sacramento case, alleging the making of false clearance papers in connection with the ship which it was alleged, was used to supply German warships at sea, using San Francisco as a base.

The consul-general of Turkey was among those indicted in that case.

The new indictment, the message said, supersedes those previously found in the same case.

Trial of the two cases is not expected before late in April.

Will Be Returned Thursday.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9.—The reported indictment of Consul-General Bopp, according to federal officials, probably will be returned by the federal grand jury when it reconvenes Thursday. It was understood that Mr. Bopp and a number of other persons, probably including foreign governmental representatives, were the subjects of indictments agreed upon during the last few weeks, in connection with a series of alleged violations of American neutrality.

LOOK FOR YOUNG MAN AN ALLEGED FORGER

FOUR SPURIOUS CHECKS CASHED
RECENTLY BY HARMON
MERCHANTS.

Officials are searching for a young man, variously signing his name as Calvin, Carl and James Groth, who passed four forged checks at Harmon recently, two on the Harmon bank and two on the Amboy bank and purporting to be made out by John and Frank Haley to Groth. Both the Haleys deny drawing up such checks, declaring that their signatures were forged. Groth had spent a good part of the winter at the John Haley home, whose wife is his cousin. The checks were cashed by Frank Kugler, Wm. Camery, Wm. Kugler and D. D. Conside Monday afternoon, and that afternoon Groth made his getaway from Harmon, going, it is supposed, to Freeport, or Durand, where his mother lives.

The demand of an Amboy liveryman that a horse, hired by Groth and not returned in a specified time, be held in Harmon, started the investigation.

Alleged Thief Of Hamilton Outfit Is Now Under Arrest

W. M. O'Conner, Held At Columbia, Mo. Wanted Here
And At Freeport

A man is under arrest at Columbia, Mo., named W. M. O'Conner, alias James McKenzie, who is thought to be the party who stole the horse and buggy belonging to a hired man employed on the Kegwin farm from the streets at Walnut early in December, the outfit being located in a livery barn at Freeport. Several days before Christmas he stole a team of horses from a pasture near Pearl City and sold them at public sale and with the proceeds from the sale made his departure. Sheriff Ohmsgerds picked up clues here and there and finally located the man in Missouri. He finally secured a photograph of O'Conner, and forwarded it to the sheriff at Columbia and thus located his man. The Stephenson county sheriff has gone to Missouri to bring his man back. O'Conner is said to have a criminal record.

MISSING FILES BRING NEW ORDER OF COURT

HEREAFTER ORIGINAL PAPERS
IN ANY MATTER MUST REMAIN IN OFFICE.

COPIES MUST BE FILED ALSO

An order has just been entered in the county court regarding the filing of copies of instruments and removal of files from the office of the clerk. This has been brought about by the many files missing from the clerk's office which cannot be located, and there are also others that have been destroyed by fire or otherwise.

The order in substance reads as follows: "It is ordered that hereafter a copy of every petition, report, order, inventory, claim against estate, motion and of any and every pleading, shall be filed with the original or with in twelve hours afterward, marked 'copy' for the use of attorneys and interested parties."

"It is also further ordered that all original files shall remain permanently in the office of the clerk of the court and may be examined there or copied by, or for, any person interested, but shall not be taken from the clerk's office by any person, unless by the written order of the judge of the court."

TAX ON FRANCHISE HELD LEGAL BY COURT

SUPREME TRIBUNAL HAS HELD AGAINST PEORIA RAILWAY
CO. IN BIG CASE.

The supreme court has dismissed the appeal brought by the Peoria Railway company against the action of the Peoria county board of review in assessing the corporation on its franchise. If the company makes no further fight it will be compelled to pay more than $1,000 in taxes for 1915 on its franchise alone.

The township assessor assessed the franchise on a valuation of $50,000. The corporation filed an objection, allying that the franchise was not assessable by the local assessor, but that such power rested alone with the state board of equalization. The board of review decided against the railway company and the company appealed to the supreme court, filing a voluminous record. The county was represented by the states attorney, who took the position that the company had no right to appeal from the decision of the board of review and upon motion of the county the court dismissed the appeal.

The Peoria county assessor likewise assessed the franchises of the Central Union Telephone company, the Peoria Water Works company, the Central Illinois Light company, besides the capital stock of a number of large corporations. The amount of the tax added to the township of Peoria amounted to no little sum.

NEW ARCHBISHOP OF CHICAGO INSTALLED WITH BIG CEREMONY

GRAT POMP MARKED SEATING OF MOST REVEREND GEO. W.
MUNDELEIN IN CHICAGO

IS THE YOUNGEST ARCHBISHOP

New Head of Diocese Only Forty-Three Years of Age—Is Remarkable Man

(Associated Press)

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The Most Rev. George W. Mundelein, D. D., was installed as the Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago and metropolitan of the province of Illinois here today with elaborate ceremonies in Holy Name cathedral. He is the third holder of the office his predecessors having been Patrick A. Feehan, who died late in 1902, and James E. Quigley, whose death occurred late last summer.

The Most Rev. John Bonzano, delegate from the vatican, to Washington, officiated at the services, aided by the Rt. Rev. Charles E. McDonnell, bishop of Brooklyn, by whom Archbishop Mundelein was ordained into the priesthood, and scores of other clergymen.

Archbishop Mundelein arrived in Chicago yesterday from Brooklyn, escorted from that city by a delegation of 70 officials of the Chicago diocese.

This morning church societies in full regalia escorted him from his residence to the cathedral, but because of a possibility of bad weather no arrangements were made for a lengthy or elaborate procession. The ceremony of installation, however, was marked with pomp.

Met Administrator

At the door of the cathedral Archbishop Mundelein was met by Rt. Rev. M. J. Fitzsimmons, who has been administrator of the archdiocese since Archbishop Quigley's death. Followed by bishops from dioceses throughout the country—about fifty in all, and more than 800 Chicago clergymen Father Mundelein was escorted to the sanctuary with officers of the pontifical mass. Kneeling before the altar the new archbishop heard prayers by Monsgr. Fitzsimmons, and ascending to the altar gave his blessing and retired to the throne.

Addresses by the apostolic delegate, Father Fitzsimmons, and by John A. Lynch, one of the lay leaders of the church in Chicago, were followed by the reading of the papal bulls proclaiming the appointment of Father Mundelein as archbishop.

The 800 clergymen of the Chicago diocese, in procession then proceeded to the throne of Archbishop Mundelein.

JANUARY TERM OF COURT NEARS AN END

WILL BE DISPOSED OF BY END OF WEEK

KUELIGREN IS DENIED NEW TRIAL

The hearing on the citation for contempt issued against Oscar Boone to answer why he did not comply with an order issued by the court in June last will be taken up on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the circuit court. At the completion of this hearing arguments will be heard in the bill for separate maintenance by Margaret Kempster against her husband, Frederick Kempster. In the afternoon the contested divorce suit brought by Amanda Waldon against her husband, Albert Waldon is set for hearing. Attorney Harry Edwards represents the complainants while Attorney John Devine is for the defendant.

In the court on Tuesday afternoon arguments were heard on a motion made for a new trial in the damage suit brought by Anton Kueligren of Mendota against the Illinois Central railroad company, in which the court had instructed the jury to find for the defendant. The motion was overruled and an appeal was taken to the higher court which was allowed on filing of a bill of particulars with in a given time together with a bond.

Today in court a motion was made by the plaintiff in the suit of Elizabeth Theiss et al vs. Jacob B. Koehler et al, to have the suit dismissed at the plaintiff's costs and the motion was granted. It is expected that the work of the term will be about completed this week with the possible exception of one or two chancery matters, and these will be taken up later on. It is quite likely that an adjournment will be taken on Friday for a week or ten days.

PLAN ELECTRIC LINE MOLINE TO ROCHELLE

PROPOSED ROAD WOULD TOUCH
AMBOY AND LEE CENTER IN THIS COUNTY.

PROMOTERS SEE ROSY PROSPECTS

Moline, Feb. 9.—A number of business men of the tri-cities, seeing an opportunity to open up a direct route to the south, are contemplating the construction of an interurban line between Moline and Rochelle and considerable progress has been made in promoting the project, it has been reported.

The proposed line would have no competition in this field; it would connect with the main lines of the Burlington, Northwestern and Illinois Central, therefore it should enjoy the patronage of every manufacturer in this territory, especially exporters. The steamship lines are building big docks and wharves at New Orleans to handle the increased amount of exports, and local factories would be able to open up a direct shipping route to this important point on the gulf.

In addition to these features it is important to know that the proposed line would pass through one of the richest farming communities in the state, and would also tap the valuable coal lands.

The proposed line would run from Moline to Geneseo, touching a point near Colona bridge en route, thence to Hoopole, Tampico, Amboy, Lee Center and Rochelle, covering a total distance of 86 miles. At Geneseo connections would be made with the Rock Island, at Tampico it would connect with the Burlington, at Amboy it would touch the main line of the Illinois Central and at Rochelle the C. & N. W.

ANDERSON MAY PLEAD UNWRITTEN LAW IN DEFENSE

ATTORNEY A. G. HARRIS OF DIXON
INTIMATES NEW FEAT-URE IN CASE.

NEVER HAD MARRIED THE GIRL

In His Confession Prisoner Said That Lenox Had Insulted His Girl Companion.

(Special to Telegraph)

Kewanee, Feb. 9.—Frank Anderson, confessed murderer of Roy Lenox of Dixon, whom he killed with an axe in their camp near Cambridge on October 19th, may repudiate his confession, stand trial for the murder and plead the "unwritten law" as his defense.

His Attorney Talks.

This new development in the sensational murder case was intimated by Anderson's attorney, A. G. Harris of Dixon, after he had spent considerable time in conference with the prisoner at the Henry county jail in Cambridge yesterday.

It is understood that Attorney Harris was sent to Cambridge by some of Anderson's relatives in or near Mendota, to look after his interests, and it is reported that the plan of defense was determined upon at the conference.

Told of "Insults."

It is known that in his confession to States Attorney Anderson, the confessed slayer stated that Lenox had made advances toward his wife and had insulted her, and the states attorney paid little attention to that feature of the confession, inasmuch as the prisoner was never legally married to the girl.

Were Not Married.

The states attorney learned that the girl had been deceived in regard to the supposed marriage to Anderson. She is just 16 now and has lived with Anderson almost two years. According to her story to the officials he told her that they were married, and exhibited a marriage license. In her ignorance she thought that he had told the truth and she treasured the worthless license for a precious document. She had it framed and carried it along on all the trips in the moving wagon.

OFFER TO CUT RATES TO MANUFACTURERS

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. SEEKS TO RELIEVE HEAVY LOADS ON POWER PLANTS.

(Associated Press)

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A decrease of from 12 to 15 per cent in the rates for electricity has been offered by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to manufacturers who will not use electricity for the operation of their plants after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The offer has been made to relieve the burden on the power plants between the hours of 4 and 8 o'clock p. m., when the demand for electricity is at its maximum.

The Public Utilities commission has the quotations under advisement. 139 villages and cities are affected.

TRAIN VERY LATE

Passenger train No. 10, eastbound, due here at 11:19 a. m., did not reach Dixon Monday until nearly 6:30 p. m. The train was delayed here twenty minutes on account of trouble with the engine. They got as far as Franklin Grove where the engine was taken off and the locomotive from another train was substituted.

Author of "At Gitch's Old Siwash" KINGS.

Kings were invented shortly after the earth cooled off. From that time to this most countries have had kings, but the disease is now steadily decreasing in severity and is well under control.

Originally a king was a man who was so handy with a sword or a large stone club that no one dreamed of disobeying him. The early kings were great fighters. A king usually led his army into battle and hewed a neat and workmanlike path through the opposition with his battle axe, until he met some other candidate with a better backhand stroke than his. Then he died and was buried with his hands folded piously, and his toes pointing heavenward, while the man with the improved chop had a new sweat-band put in the crown, and wore it until he got fat and neglected training, about which time he usually met some rising young axeman and was filed away in a handsome sarcophagus for future generations to gaze at. There was really little difference between the early king business and the prize fighting game, except that the former was more unhealthy.

When a king succeeded in dying in bed with his boots off and his head on, he passed his crown on to his eldest son. This has always been one of the weaknesses of the system, owing to the well known inclinations of the sons of successful fathers to live on their dads and neglect their opportunities. Many a strong king who had inspired upwards of 11,000 obituaries by his own unaided efforts, has passed on the job of slicing up the opposition to a pimply son who was an expert dancer but could not carve a beefsteak, let alone a foe. The efforts of these unfortunates to ride their wild and turbulent kingdoms were as pathetic as would be the attempt of a pale child to climb aboard a rhinoceros and boot him into usefulness.

As the world grew more civilized, however, it amused itself with politics instead of fighting. This is a very difficult game and the late kings have not been allowed to interfere in it very much. Nowadays, a king is expected to wear plenty of uniforms, to open new churches and colleges, to give free parades whenever possible and to provide plenty of descendants, but he is not allowed to get gay with the statute books any more. In fact he has been denatured and mitigated until he is now scarcely more exciting than a president's aide-de-camp.

Kings are very expensive, but are usually quiet and well mannered, and old-fashioned countries like England, Spain and Italy, enjoy them just as they do their cathedrals and art galleries. A king in a circus would draw well in this country, and as large numbers of kings are losing their positions each year, we may yet be able to stock the zoos of this country with well preserved specimens of these queer creatures.

DEMENTTOWN DOINGS

If the groundhog was right we are due for six weeks more of cold weather. Well that means six weeks less of hot weather to wolf about later on.

The petition circulating pest will soon be abroad in the land in great numbers. It's a good time to develop writers' paralysis.

Aren't the old maids peculiar? If you speak of them as chicken they are tickled to death, but if you happen to refer to them as old hens you've made enemies for life.

Times certainly have changed. Nowadays mothers take their kids to moving picture shows to see stories thrown on screens that we used to get flicked for reading in a paper backed novel.

Some Mistake.
According to the last Dixon city directory we have within the corporate limits of the city: 9 Fords, 4 Mitchells, 4 Chandlers, 1 Chase, 5 Kings, 2 Dodges and a few other miscellaneous ones. We are sure the directory computer made some mistake, for we dodge more than that every time we step out on the street.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEARS PIMPLY SKIN

Says we must make kidneys clean the blood and pimples disappear.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

Special Music
Solemn pontifical high mass, celebrated by Mons. Bonzano, assisted by the Very Reverend M. J. FitzSimmons with Reverend P. O'Brien as deacon of the mass, Rev. David McDonald, as sub-deacon and Dr. D. J. Dunne as master of ceremonies. Special music was provided by selected organists of Chicago churches and the Catholic College Boys, under the direction of Professor Benjamin Wortman, organist at Holy Name.

Archbishop Mundelein was then vested with full pontificals and proceeding to the altar, knelt before the apostolic delegates and took oath of obedience to the Holy See. Mons. Bonzano, cloaked him with the pallium, emblematic of his office of Archbishop, closing the ceremony.

Because Holy Name cathedral seats only 1,800 it was necessary to provide tickets for admittance. The number of visiting clergymen and of officials of the diocese who took part in the installation made it impossible for any considerable number of visitors witness the ceremony, yet crowds gathered outside the structure. Squads of police were detailed to prevent crushes at the doors.

Youngest Archbishop
Archbishop Mundelein, who is 43 years old, is the youngest priest ever to be entrusted with an archdiocese of the importance of Chicago. He was born in Brooklyn and finished his preliminary education in Manhattan college, N. Y., in 1889, being the youngest man to whom this college ever granted a degree. He began his theological course at the Propaganda Tide in Rome in 1890 and was ordained in to the priesthood in 1895.

In 1906 Pope Pius designated Archbishop Mundelein as domestic prelate, bringing to him the titles of right reverend and monsignor. In 1907 he was selected as a member of the Ancient Academy of Arcadia.

—the only man in the United States upon whom this honor ever was conferred. In 1909 the honorary title of Bishop of Loryma was given him and in the same year he was made auxiliary bishop of Brooklyn.

Archbishop Mundelein, besides being learned in ecclesiastical lore, is a linguist, his knowledge of foreign languages making his work in parishes in Europe most effective.

Well Attended Event
Saturday evening saw one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a social event held at St. Mary's hall, Walton. About four hundred thoroughly enjoyed the Variety Musical Entertainment presented by the Ft. Dearborn Council K. of C. and the Isabella Circle of Chicago. From the rise of the curtain, a contagious spirit of joviality and good cheer to take hold of the audience and keep its hold until the final chorus. Every musical number received a hearty encore. Deserving of special notice were the songs: Buckwheat Cakes, by Messrs. William Petit and Edward Downs and Saving Up Coupons by M. Feeley. These two numbers were exceptionally clever and much enjoyed by all. Instrumental music for the occasion was furnished by the Marquette orchestra.

The Chicago visitors were guests of Waltonites over Sunday. Those participating in the entertainment were: J. McCumiskey, William Petit, Edward Downs, M. Feeley, J. Koehler, Margaret Howley Vera Russell, Cecelia McMahon, Jennie Skillen, Jennie Petit, and Mrs. J. Koehler.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it will be confidential.

GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Try this! Your hair gets wavy, glossy and abundant at once.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Ever Fall?

—OR Wrench Your Back? Slip, wrench, strain, fall or jolt, received weeks, months, or even years ago may be responsible for the ailments of today. Why?

Every fall, twist or strain is recorded in the backbone; the movable bones are forced out of normal position. Nature then cannot carry a normal flow of nerve force through the nerve cables, which radiate through the back-bones, when displaced vertebrae are injuring them.

Result? Disease of organs these injured nerves, should feed. Since there is a mechanical interference; it must be adjusted mechanically. The only Science that does correct the cause of Dis-ease is Chiropractic.

If your life is worth anything, your health is worth a few minutes' investigation of Chiropractic.

OPENING OF GARDENING SEASON
While spring itself does not begin with February, spring work does. And it is gardening work. It is not expected, of course, that the gardener will go out doors and garden. He will not spade up flower beds and turn over the soil where the summer vegetables grow. But, if he is a real gardener, the advent of February will set him to doing what many others postpone doing until April.

February, in the gardener's calendar, is known as "planning" month. Before it has passed into March the backyard gardener knows what he is going to plant and where he is going to plant it. His garden is planned as completely as a house might be planned. He knows where the row of early lettuce will grow, what second crop will follow it and, in many instances, what third crop will follow the second. He has planned to make the most of his ground. Each square foot of it will produce, not only one crop—for that would be a waste of opportunity—but a succession of crops. And he will have so planned that with the use of early, midseason and late varieties of vegetables, he will have produce from his garden over a long season. Instead of having more peas and beans for a fortnight than he can possibly consume, and then no more at all, he will have peas and beans all through the season, enough at all times and no more than enough.

Indoors, in sunny windows, both flowers and vegetables will be planted in the seed flats before the month is ended. Later, when others are only beginning to think of planting, he will have stock little seedlings. Thereby he snatches a month out of the grasp of Time. All his pruning of grape vines and fruit trees will be finished before February has passed and likewise his spraying against scale.

The backyard gardener has learned how to make the most of time, soil and opportunity. His numbers in recent years have multiplied amazingly. He is no longer the butt of the humorist's jokes. He is taken seriously. What he produces in the course of a season the government does not know but it estimates the value of his produce in the millions. Some city families never find it necessary to buy vegetables from spring to fall. What they consume comes from the vegetable patch in the back yard—fresh, tender, crisp, of highest quality. From the practices of the backyard gardener, and from the results he achieves, many a good farmer could learn a lesson of value. The time to begin is in February.—Indianapolis News.

STARTS THE "LAZY DOLLAR" GOING.

Merchants and professional men all over the United States are attracted to the possibilities of National Pay Up Week because it is not a debt collecting device, but a plan which will result in the payment of good debts.

It is really the lazy dollar that makes the most trouble for business men, the dollar that is "as good as wheat in the mill," but which does not come along when most needed.

When National Pay Up Week publicity gets into action it focuses the attention of careless folks on the subject of community payments. It gets them to realize that the few dollars they owe merchants have an enormous number of idle sisters, uncles, aunts, nephews, nieces, nephews, cousins and other near kin who might be doing a lot of good in business circles but are loafing around and not doing the community any good by circulating.

It is the circulating dollars that make the life blood of local business. The same dollar may pass in one day through fifteen or twenty different hands and pay off fifteen or twenty dollars of small debts. The problem is to get it started.

National Pay Up Week solves this problem. It impresses the perfectly good, but indifferent, or careless, or procrastinating debtor with the fact that he is imposing upon a man who has done him a favor when he persistently neglects to pay his small debts.

It makes them realize that if everybody gets in line and pays off such debts, or as much as they can pay, that thousands of dollars are put in circulation at the same time and that everybody is benefited, either directly or indirectly.

This is the time of the year when business men need money more than at any other time with which to start the business of the new year. National Pay Up Week gives them a polite means of letting their indebted customers know that they will appreciate even small favors. All good citizens will take the hint and act upon it.

DEMOCRATS MUST COME TO IT.

"It looks to me as though our democratic friends are up a tree on the dye stuff proposition," said Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway of New Hampshire, to a group of his colleagues. "From all over New England come urgent appeals from cotton and wool and paper manufacturers urging Congress to establish a sufficient duty on dye stuffs so that protection will be granted to American dye producers, who desire to establish industries of this sort. The importance of making the United States independent of Germany or any other country, in the matter of dye stuffs, has been brought home most forcefully by the great European war. Yet no concern in any section of the country will invest vast sums of money in the dye industry unless guaranteed protection, so that when the war is ended they can have some assurance that they can continue business and not be driven out by foreign competition."

The Lusitania case is settled now. Not very satisfactorily, but settled, which is something. President Wilson forced the issue pretty hard on the Lusitania matter, and there were elements in the case which surely justified it, but he found the Imperial German government a little too stubborn, and he had no means for backing up his demands. The Lusitania affair leaves a bad taste in the mouths of Americans, from first to last.

Somebody suggests that in order to prevent U. S. submarines from getting lost they ought to be mounted on wheels and maneuvered over the land and that a tracer should be started after them as soon as they go.

Got your dollar ready for Dollar Day? It is going to be a big day in Dixon, and you will save many dollars if you come here to do your buying.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Tale of Story — Twelve Rings and An Old Bow.

It Would Not Bend For Any of the Nobles.

DADDY took Jack and Evelyn on his lap. When they stayed still he told them: "The noble nobles who made Odysseus' palace their home for ten years, even when he was home still disguised as a beggar, voted to hold games and give his wife, Penelope, to the noble who could shoot an arrow through twelve rings set in line. Now, you must please remember that Odysseus and his young son, Telemachus, had planned these games in spite of the nobles. So now Telemachus brought a very strong old bow that a king had once given Odysseus when he was a boy and with it a quiver full of arrows. These he laid on the great hand carved table that stood in the beautiful hall of the palace. Then Telemachus carefully said that, lest somebody get hurt in the excitement of the shooting game, all other weapons must be put away. Remember that Odysseus was a king and that all ancient palaces had their walls hung with all sorts of axes, slings, bows, arrows and knives. So while the nobles laughed, ate and joked Telemachus had servants clear the hall of every kind of a weapon except the huge old bow and its arrows. He, too, laughed and joked, pretending that he was making lots of room for the game."

"I forget how many nobles there were, daddy?" asked Evelyn.
"One hundred. Imagine how much it had cost Odysseus' estate to feed and care for so many men ten years, to say nothing of all the annoyance they had been making to his faithful wife. Well, when everything was ready for the game the first thing to do was to bend the bow and tie the bowstring. As the host, Telemachus first tried to do this, but he was only about sixteen, and when he had tried and tried he modestly said that the game was beyond his strength and passed the bow on to the noble standing beside him."

"Could the noble tie the string?" cried Jack.
"No. He tried with all his might and, with his face flushed by the strain, with his comrades laughing and jeering at him, passed it on to another noble. Another noble tried it and another. Then the next one ordered a slave to fetch some help."

"Just like Aunt's tallow candle, daddy?" asked Evelyn.
"So they greased the old bow, hoping to make it slippery and soft. But nothing mattered. It would not bend for any of the nobles. Then the old beggar, who, you know, was Odysseus disguised by the goddess Minerva, humbly stepped up and asked if he might be allowed to try," daddy finished, with two good night kisses.

He announces he will hold some open air meetings on the streets of the city soon.

Hoi Polloi Meeting

The Hoi Polloi club members were pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by Miss Marie Madden at the home of her sister, Mrs. Louis Leydig. At least, Miss Madden expected to all the entertaining, and a talk-fest over sewing for needy ones was progressing merrily, when several strong pulls on the door bell announced that Miss Madden would be assisted by some right good entertainers, the husbands and friends of the Hoi Polloi members. And almost before the Hoi Polloiers knew it they were comfortably seated in a big bob for a ride about town. Right ready were they to enjoy the oyster stew furnished by the men and cooked and served by the men at the Leydig home on their return.

Dramatic Notes

PRINCESS THEATRE
Manager Slothower wishes to announce that the feature for tonight is one of the funniest Keystone comedies ever seen in this city, together with a wonderfully produced Mustang feature. The comedy is in two reels, entitled "When Ambrose Dared Walrus," with Chester Conklin as Walrus and Mack Swain as Ambrose. These two comedians with an all star cast of Keystone players will be seen in the most uproarious comedy ever witnessed by theatre goers and everyone will leave the theatre laughing.

The other feature is a Mustang entitled "The Cactus Blossom" with Anna Little and Frank Borzage in leading roles, a great human drama of the west splendidly portrayed by two of the ablest of American players. This feature is directed by Thomas Chatterton.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Dutch Blockhead," one of the most popular offerings of the Winninger company because of the wide berth it gives that effervescent fountain of fun, Frank Winninger, will be replayed here during this week's program of the Winninger varieties of musical comedies at the Dixon opera house. But the production is different than before. Some portions have been eliminated and laughs and music have been injected into it to make it a delightful character play. Without the music "The Dutch Blockhead" is complete; with it it is a scream. There are no off-color mental or physical allusions that this production will not erase.

The Winninger company this season under the management of Frank Winninger has a chorus that can sing, a chorus that can dance and a chorus that is clad in good taste and in a lot of expensive clothing.

Jane Allyn, leading woman of the company, is a handsome girl with excellent singing and speaking voice, a pleasant smile and a manner which sends good breeding across the footlights.

FAMILY THEATRE

At the Family theatre the next offering of the Rolfe Photoplays Inc. on the Metro program will be the superb dramatic success, Ethel Barrymore in "The Final Judgment," a vigorous five part photodrama written by Geo. Scarborough, author of The Lure and other successful Broadway shows, which will be shown tonight. In addition to Miss Barrymore there is a strong supporting cast of prominent and talented stage and screen artists including Percy G. Standing, H. Cooper-Cliffe, Nathon Hamilton, Paul Lawrence and Beatrice Maude. The picture is full of intense situations affording Miss Barrymore an excellent opportunity to display her wonderful talents. The story is founded on the love of three men for the same woman and the trio is composed of types at once vigorous, virile and distinctive. It is the best effort of the brilliant dramatist who has many achievements to his credit. Edwin Carewe directed the production.

CONSIDERS INVITATION

(Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 9.—President Wilson has taken under advisement the invitation of Senator Hitchcock to speak on "Preparedness" at Lincoln, Neb., Bryan's home.

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant water.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphate and limestone is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

FOR $11,000,000 BILL IN FACE OF THREATS

Senate Committee Votes for Armor Plate Factories.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Private armor plate manufacturers notified the senate naval committee that they would raise the price of armor plate $200 a ton if congress decided to erect or purchase armor plate factories for the government. The committee, nevertheless, voted to recommend government plants.

Senator Penrose, Republican, of Pennsylvania, notified the committee of the stand taken by the armor plate manufacturers, those chiefly concerned being the Bethlehem and Midvale Steel companies.

The committee, nevertheless, voted 9 to 3 to report favorably Senator Tillman's bill to authorize the secretary of the navy to provide either by erection or purchase for an armor plate factory, or both with capacity of not less than 20,000 tons of armor a year. The bill would appropriate $11,000,000. Senators Penrose and Lodge and Smith of Michigan, Republicans, voted against reporting the bill.

Chairman Tillman and Senators Swanson, Bryan, Johnson (Me.), Chilton, Phelan and Pittman, Democrats, and Clapp and Poindestor, Republicans, voted for it.

OUTBREAK OF NAVAJO INDIANS THREATENED

Killing of Tribesman by Policemen Incenses Red Men.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 9.—A large number of Indians on the Navajo reservation in Arizona are threatening to go on the war path and the federal officials here have asked Washington for advice as to whether to send a force of deputy marshals to the reservation to preserve order.

U. S. Attorney Thomas Flynn received a dispatch from the reservation which said that the Indians are in an ugly frame of mind because a fellow tribesman was killed by three policemen who went to arrest him. The Indian fired at the policemen when they appeared, and he was killed when they returned the fire. Friends of the Indian are threatening revenge.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Instructions were sent to United States Attorney Thomas Flynn of Arizona to take steps to head off any Indian uprising in the Navajo reservation by officials of the Indian service of the department of justice. Mr. Flynn was told to send a posse into the reservation and arrest the policeman who started the trouble by killing an Indian. It was expected that this will quiet the Indians.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

There yet remain close to 25 games to be played and many changes in the standing between now and the time the last game is rolled the last of March are likely.

PIDGIN ISLAND

By HAROLD MACGRATH

SYNOPSIS.

Cranford, an international secret agent, back from Europe, decides to go fishing at Pidgin Island. He does not know that Diana, a handsome young girl, has already arrived there.

Smead, a jewel smuggler, instructs his son to "get" Cranford, who has broken up the father's illicit business. They learn about his fishing trip.

Cranford meets Diana (Miss Wynne) and learns that she knows Uncle Billy, a fisherman, very well. Cranford gets a telegram stating that his rooms at home had been entered and looted.

Cranford and Diana meet at the end of a fishing expedition. The girl becomes greatly excited when she sees a power boat approaching Pidgin Island.

Cranford and Diana become better acquainted. They become rivals as to who can catch the most and the largest fish. Uncle Billy becomes an admirer of each of them.

The women natives wonder who Diana is and speculate in gossip fashion. They conclude that she is an actress. Uncle Billy resents this aspersions. Cranford plans a trip to Kingston.

Cranford begins to realize that he is in love with Diana Wynne. He admits to her that he is a secret agent who has been tracing the lawbreaking operations of the smuggler, Smead.

CHAPTER VIII.

Just Friends, That's All.

FOUR elderly dames, three of whom sat primly in the cane bottomed chairs; the fourth, shielding her face with her apron, knelt before the oven and drew out from the withering blast of heat four brown loaves of "salt risings."

Then she set the loaves upside down on the deal table and wiped her perspiring face.

A trite picture, hill old; in nearly every art gallery in the world you will see it, and few artists have ever had the courage to name it anything harsher than "Gossip."

Nothing good ever emanates from these afternoon quartets; the trail of the serpent is over it all; you will find a trail of Borgia pasties, too, beautifully frosted outside and wonderfully poisoned within—slow poison.

Merely! that don't mean any harm; they wouldn't hurt a fly—so they say when confronted with some of their irreparable damage. The devil finds a plenty for idle hands to do, but his main business is the culture of idle tongues; and from the very bottom of his soul—pardon the anachronism—he loathes the deaf and dumb.

In a country village the first topic for gossip is the behavior of the rival parson's wife; then, perhaps, the little milliner, the little dressmaker, and finally any new arrival who minds his or her own business.

An uncommunicative person is always an object of suspicion; they have something to conceal; or, if one talks and talks and talks it's an effort to throw one off the track. No hope.

So these four had discussed and dissected the rival parson's wife, the goings on of the milliner and the dressmaker, and so on, down to the strange aloof young woman who was staying out at the farm.

"She's one o' them actresses."

"An' the airs they put on 'mong decent folks!"

"Why, Bill hasn't said anything about her bein' an actress," mildly protested Uncle Billy's wife, mindful of the $6 the day.

"That's like a man, allus blind's a bat."

"She seems nice spoken."

"It's their business to be. Actresses are th' only womin who go gaddin' about without their husbands, who're allus gittin' divorced. You never see a newspaper without readin' somethin' about their goin's on. She's be'n here more'n a week an' hasn't been to either church. An' she did not attend th' ice cream social—the last o' th' season too. Hasn't been in th' village but three times, an' never speaks t' no-buddy."

"Actress, no doubt of it."

"Who's an actress?" boomed a male voice from the kitchen doorway, and Uncle Billy marched in.

There was a flutter, nothing more.

The four women were rather spellbound over the suddenness of his appearance.

"Are you talkin' 'bout Miss Wynne, who I'm fishin'?" Well, I'll have y' know, now 'n' hereafter, she ain't no actress."

"How'd you know she ain't?" asked his wife.

"How'd I know? Ain't I got eyes'n ears? She ain't no actress. She don't do no self advertisin', an' self advertisin' is meat 'n' drink t' all th' actors I ever see. Keep your meddlin' tongues off'n Miss Wynne. That's all I've got t' say."

He flung his cap savagely into a corner.

The three visitors rose, settled their bonnets dignifiedly, smoothed their gowns and stalked out, not, however, missing the opportunity of extending a commiserating glance at Uncle Billy's better half.

"Now look what you went an' done!"—on the verge of tears.

"What I went an' done! Dodgast it! Them busybodies!"

"Willum!"

"I tell y' I won't have 'em in my kitchen."

"Your kitchen!"—for the benefit of the three who were just passing the window.

"My house, then, 'f that'll suit y' better. Buzzin' away decent folks's reputations. Them three make more trouble 'n a sturgeon in a nest o' bass eggs."

Tell everything they hear, 'n ball it all up when they tell it. They drove two ministers out o' th' village already with their twistin' tongues. An' what riles me is, you let 'em in here t' bulldoze you 'n' believin' all they say."

He yanked his supper off the back of the stove and ate it with a deal of banging and rattling and rumbly.

"I'm sure I don't ask 'em t' come here with their tales," sure that the trio were now out of earshot.

"Mebbe; but I notice y' don't stuff your ears none." He got up from the kitchen table. "F anybody wants me I'm out t' th' boathouse; got t' overhaul th' dingied engine. 'F I was rich I'd throw th' blame loony ol' sputterin' int' th' middle o' the lake!"

He worked by lantern. He had the tops of the cylinders off when Cranford came in.

"Billy, do you want to make $10?"

"Ten? Well, now!"

"I want you to take me over to Kingston right away."

"What—t'night?"

"Yes."

"Can't be done, Mr. Cranford. Do it fer nuthin' in a minute 'f I could. 'First place, I'm takin' th' engine apart; second place, they ain't no oil, not till t'morrow mornin'." An' what th' dickens y' want t' go t' Kingston fer?"

"I want very much to see a man there."

"Sakes alike, why didn't y' see him this afternoon?"

"Didn't want to keep Miss Wynne, who was tired. Can't possibly go, then?"

"Nope. Ticklish job, anyhow, goin' over in th' dark. Smells windy. Take th' boat in th' mornin'."

"Anybody else I could get?"

"Nope. No oil anywhere. Tank wasn't filled this afternoon. Goin' out t' Pidgin t'morrow!"

"Hang Pidgin! Mark my words, Billy, you'll get caught out there one of these days and caught hard."

"But I ain't hungry fer Pidgin," protested Uncle Billy.

"You ought to be able to fake up some excuse."

"Not with Miss Wynne listenin'."

Cranford chewed the stem of his pipe.

"I suppose I'll have to give up the idea of going over to Kingston. Instead I'll go out to the farm and give Miss Wynne a lecture and try to convince her of the real danger this time of the year. A big blow is due. You remember when we hit Galoo."

"I ain't forgettin' it none. Say, is Miss Wynne an actress?"

"A what? Good Lord, no! What put that idea into your head?"

"I dunno," uneasily.

"I'm familiar with the faces of all the well known women of the stage."

"She's one o' them actresses."

"An' the airs they put on 'mong decent folks!"

"Why, Bill hasn't said anything about her bein' an actress," mildly protested Uncle Billy's wife, mindful of the $6 the day.

fish out there. You know, 'n' I know th' game is fishin' all th' known places, tryin' your luck everywhere. T'day was th' first time she's fished any wheres but Pidgin. An' by golly, that makes your uncle think! I got t' fix them bass this very night. Ain't she some fisherman, though? Mebbe that five pounder wasn't a wrastlin' match! Oh, my! All in when she got th' net under 'em. I had t' hist 'em in myself. A perfect fish. Anyhow, you come out t' Pidgin, too; it'll be safer all around. Don't tell her, but my ol' bones 'r whisperin' there's goin' t' be a blow before mornin'."

"So much the better. I'll follow if it takes me out to Duck Island."

It was a mile and a half out to the farm. Cranford covered the ground with the swinging stride of a man who knew how to walk.

A great ruddy September moon was clearing the tops of the trees in the east. A silvery blue haze dimmed the outline of the river.

Smead. He had really seen the man. Imagination never played such tricks; fancy could never have created that bulk, the cane, and the bad limp.

He had seen him, and in turn Smead had seen him and taken to cover. Deviltry of some order was afoot. It hung about Smead as a miasma hangs about swamps.

Reprisal? Were they after him? He laughed. If it came to a physical contest they would have their hands full. Smead was not a man to ignore, however; strong, daring, resourceful, teaming with the facile cunning of the accomplished blackleg.

Fillbuster, a gambler, smuggler, bookmaker at the race tracks, owner of a string of gambling houses that reached from New York to San Francisco. What had he not turned his predatory hand to?

Well, he had cut Smead's claws in one direction; his smuggling days were over. The confiscation, the heavy fine and the suspended sentence would keep him to other affairs for some years to come.

Lucky thought, that, to take a jaunt into Kingston. They might have surprised him. Now he was on guard. And immediately he forgot all about Smead.

Love. He paused and looked at the moon. And ten days ago she hadn't existed to his knowledge.

Ten wonderful days. He went on, lightly humming the aria from "Martha." A glorious night; opal mists lay upon the meadows, and the black shadows were the kine; the tops of the cornfields were like silver plumes; a rabbit scurried across the road; an owl hooted to its mate, and there were strange rustlings and flutterings in the leaves about.

Presently he saw the lights of the farm twinkling in and out of the grove of pines that stood like sentinels before the house.

His keen, roving eye discovered a white patch against the misty drab of the old dock, and his heart bothered him; there was a thickness in his throat, and the backbone of his courage was nowhere.

Yet, with the lightness and sureness of the hunter that he was, he crossed the rubble and shale between him and the dock almost noiselessly.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed.

But that was the woman of it, for she had seen him approaching—not that she had been watching—some five minutes back. The eagerness of the stride had made her tremble a little, she knew not exactly why.

"You came along as noiselessly as a cat. Excuse me for not rising." She made room for him on the steamer rug, and shortly four heels beat a light tattoo against the piles of the dock.

"What a night! Isn't it splendid?" She turned her face toward him.

It was as beautiful as moonlight, and her eyes were as deep and mysterious as the voids beyond. It was mighty hard work for him to resist taking her in his arms then and there. Perhaps it would have been better if he had.

"I have a confession to make," he began at once.

The smaller pair of heels became silent instantly. "I'm not going to sail under false colors any longer. Up here they think I'm a millionaire, and I've never taken the trouble to disabuse their minds. Lord knows, I'm not. My grandfather was, but he was a duck and drake chap. You know what I mean."

The little heels began the tattoo again relievedly.

"He made a dozen fortunes and spent them. And my own poor dad killed himself trying to save something out of the wreck for me. Work has been my portion."

"Work is good for all of us."

"But you don't know what kind of work I do. It's a sneak's business. I'm a special agent of the secret service, and my duty is to learn when and where jewels are purchased, to keep track of them, and to see that they are not smuggled in free of duty, and whenever these purchases are confiscated I'm given my moiety. I hate it all. It's not a gentleman's business. But my grandfather's blood in me craves for comforts, the good things of life. If I did the work because I believed it to be right, my duty, I shouldn't mind. I came up here to forget it all—to rehabilitate my pride, but I saw a man today who brought it all back a thousandfold keener."

Her voice was only curious.

"Yes. The man wasn't my friend. I didn't tell you the truth. He's a blackleg, and if ever a man deserved hanging this man Michael Smead does. A professional gambler, a smuggler and other detestable things. You see, two weeks ago I tripped him up, spoiled his game, and I've an idea that he's up here with the thought of reprisal."

"In Kingston?"

TRY "CASCAR" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS IF SICK OR BILIOUS

Tonight! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the cascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and bad colds—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels, or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

Luke McLuke Says:
Why is it that when a man marries a very homely woman people imagine that she must be very wealthy?

If there are eight men in the party in front of the bar some men never think of an important engagement until they have lapped up seven drinks and it is their turn to treat.

The old fashioned girl who used to have mobile features now has a daughter who has an automobile face.

Before he gets her he expresses his willingness to die for her. And after he gets her he is usually a dead one as far as she is concerned.

Could you say that a woman is going to extremes just because she visits the chiropodist and then calls on the hairdresser?

A motorcar doesn't have to run very fast to run an owner into debt.

A woman will make an appointment to meet her husband at 6 o'clock and show up at 7:30 and get mad because her husband is late, as usual, and isn't on hand to meet her.

No wonder the auto business is good. A man will watch five autos chasing one poor pedestrian, and he gets a year to get a machine and enjoy the sport himself.

Some people seem to imagine that the only reason why they were created with heads is because they have to have something to hang a hat on.

What has become of the old fashioned woman who used to take a half hour off every afternoon and enjoy a good cry?

You can't make a man believe it. But any time you break even with a slot machine you are a winner.

Love may laugh at the locksmith. But it is different when the collector from the installment furniture house comes around.

THIS IS CERTAIN

THE PROOF THAT DIXON READERS CANNOT DENY

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

C. J. Kirkham, 522 Peoria Ave., Dixon, says "I suffered from pains across my back for a long time. I didn't think the trouble was caused by disordered kidneys, but when a friend recommended Doan's Pills, I got a box at Leake Bros. Drug store. They completely rid me of the backache and all other symptoms of kidney complaint."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Kirkham said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney disease and the cure has been permanent." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kirkham has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. GUFFEY APPEARS

TO BE AN INVENTION

He Confesses Crime, but Can't

Be Found.

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 9.—C. W. Deore, chief of the fire department at De-cat, received a letter from David C.

Guffey of Detroit, Mich., confessing that he was responsible for an incendiary fire which destroyed part of the home of C. W. Alexander, a Decatur high school teacher, in November,

1914, in revenge for Alexander winning a girl, for whom they were both rivals.

"When we were young men we loved the same girl," Guffey wrote.

"He won her and I swore to get even.

I stole into his house at night and set a fuse to a gasoline can and escaped.

The firemen found the fuse and accused Alexander of trying to burn his house for the insurance. I am on my death bed and want Decatur people to know that Alexander was a good and honest man."

Alexander has left Decatur since the fire, and is now a teacher in the Ypsilanti, Mich., high school. A dispatch from Detroit says that no such man as Guffey can be located there, and there is no record of his death.

son, who came to Quincy in 1860 from

LUSITANIA CASE IS NOW SETTLED

Germany Accepts U. S. Note of May 13.

SAVES FACE ON WORD 'ILLEGAL'

Von Bernstorff Cables Text of Settlement Back to Berlin Government—

To Be Signed by Von Jagow and Returned to U. S.—Case Pending Nine Months.

The United States demanded

of Germany:

Disavowal.

Reparation for the lives of the 115 Americans who were killed.

Assurances for the future.

Germany will say in effecting a settlement:

That the sinking of the Lusitania was an act of retaliation against Great Britain's violation of international law in attempting to starve Germany's civil population.

That inasmuch as American lives were destroyed by this act of retaliation Germany feels justified in paying the indemnity demanded by the United States.

That Germany regrets the killing of Americans, disclaiming any intent.

That Germany is prepared to stand by her previous assurances that "liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of non-combatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."

That Germany is ready to cooperate with the United States in response to the invitation of the latter country in all efforts looking to the better protection of neutral rights on the high seas, and notes with pleasure the steps already taken by the United States in its effort to get the allies to agree to disarmament of all merchant ships.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The United States and Germany have reached an agreement for a complete settlement of the Lusitania controversy.

Official announcement to this effect was made following a conference be-
